

December 14, 2016

To Whom It May Concern:

It is our pleasure to write about Lucille Tang, who has worked with the Center for Quantitative Obesity Research and the Weight Management Clinic as a Student Clinician and a Nutrition Counselor since September 2015.

The goal of Montclair State University's Center for Quantitative Obesity Research is to facilitate the application of quantitative methods that promote collaborative interdisciplinary research related to obesity related health issues. The Center works closely with biomedical research institutions and external industries to advance understanding of the underlying physiological mechanisms behind obesity related illnesses and ultimately translate research findings to clinical applications that improve the health of individual patients. The Weight Management Clinic helps and guides people to lose weight with the help of trained biology and nutrition student counselors.

As a member of CQOR, Lucille Tang has completed 40 hours of nutritional counseling and one-on-one, clinical consultations. In addition, Lucille has also completed 60 hours of event volunteering with CQOR and the Weight Management Clinic.

Lucille has always been involved with determination and sincerity. We find her active and competent in executing all assigned tasks. She is a professional, hard-working, devoted, and motivated student who is dedicated to taking initiative. Her contribution has repeatedly been proven helpful in the advancement of the CQOR goals and objectives.

Moreover, Lucille's conduct during her stay with us is exemplary. During her service period, she has been found sincere, reliable, trustworthy, sociable, pleasant, and open to challenges. She has a genial temperament and can efficiently work in and lead a team.

Please do not hesitate to contact us if we can provide any additional information on her behalf.

Sincerely,

Amir H. Golnabi, Director

Syeda S. Islam, Clinical Director

Center for Quantitative Obesity Research and Weight Management Clinic
Montclair State University
1 Normal Ave
Montclair, NJ 07043
E-mail: Weightloss@montclair.edu